

Guided Tour to Chandni Chowk on Rickshaw

Chandni Chowk or “The moonlight square” is true identity of India’s Secularism. True hearted, naïve people of different religions live and work in close harmony here. Situated opposite the Red Fort, Chandni Chowk houses the Digambar Jain Temple, Fatehpuri Mosque, The Jama Masjid, a Catholic Church and the ShishGanj Gurudwara all within the radius of 2kms.

Chandni Chowk is 300 years old, and one of the biggest known trading centers in the world, where traders from as far as Holland came to trade. This place gains its beauty because of the variety of products that are sold here and their Indian-ness. From famous eateries, to artificial jewellery, sarees, spices, utensils, electronic goods, stationary all can be bought here.

Though tempting it may sound, it is easy to get lost in its “Galis” and “Kuchas” (streets).

Thus you need us to guide to you through and unveil each and every hidden character of this famous street.
